

Champlain Valley National Heritage Partnership

2008 Implementation Grant

Rokeby Museum Farmstead Exhibits

Project Summary

The Rokeby Museum received a 2008 Champlain Valley National Heritage Partnership Implementation Grant to create new graphics for seven existing exhibit panels in the farmstead outbuildings. These exhibits combined images and text to explain to visitors how each building functioned on the farmstead and, in the process, related the history of Vermont agriculture from statehood to the twentieth century.
