Project Summary

Through a 2009 Champlain Quadricentennial Commemoration grant from the CVNHP/LCBP, Vermont Public Radio broadcast live from the Champlain International Waterfront Festival in Burlington, Vermont. Host Jane Lindholm began the show with the announcement that it was airing live from the Festival and describe the Festival's purpose. She will also interviewed David Hackett Fischer, the author of Champlain's Dream, the definitive biography of Samuel de Champlain and took calls and questions from listeners and those in attendance at the Festival broadcast.

Vermont Public Radio reported that the event coverage on the airwaves of Vermont Public Radio resulted in increased attendance and in a dissemination of information about the event, its purpose and underlying themes to a broad regional and worldwide audience.

The Quadricentennial stories are available online
