Route Description

Approaching Lewis, the route passes Meadowmount School of Music, founded in 1944, and once the home of John Milholland who made his fortune by inventing the pneumatic mail tube. His beautiful daughter, Inez, an outspoken feminist and socialist, espoused the cause of world peace. Inez and other "suffragettes" pushed for a constitutional amendment that would establish voting rights for women nationwide. On the day Woodrow Wilson was inaugurated, 25 year old Inez, astride a great white horse, led a parade of thousands of women down Pennsylvania Avenue. Within a few years, following an exhausting speaking tour, Inez was dead. A pageant held in her honor at Meadowmount attracted 10,000 people.

The French District School House on the corner of Alden and Lewis-Wadhams Roads was operated until 1946. It is typical of the one room school houses found throughout Essex County.
